BIG DROP IN EARNINGS

PENNSYLVANIA LINES SHOW A DE-CREASE OF $1,700,000 IN MAY.

Passenger Association Organized by Local Railways - East - Bound Freight Pool Percentages.

The decrease in May earnings on the Pennsylvania lines, East and West, reaches $1,700,000. The statement issued yesterday shows a loss of $1,000,000 on Eastern lines and $700,000 on Western. An official said that the cause is, first, the fact that in May, 1893, the world's fair opened, attracting many thousand persons who otherwise would not have used the line; second, the coal strike, which shut off tonnage from mines; third, the general depression, which also seriously affected tonnage.

The Excursion Rate Trouble. Western Passenger Association roads have almost concluded to ignore outside competition in regard to the extension of the return portions of tickets for the National Educational Association meeting at Asbury Park. The situation was thoroughly canvassed at a meeting in Chicago yesterday, and it was found that the entire business from Western territory would be extremely light; that it would be next to madness to reduce one-way west-bound rates for the sake of securing any portion of it. It is certain that no action in that direction will be taken until it is found that the market is stocked with the re-turn portions of the excursion tickets and that general business is being seriously affected by their manipulation. Before deciding on any definite course, however, it was arranged that one more effort should be made to have outside lines withdraw their extension notices and adhere to the original restrictions. If they refuse it is altogether likely their action will be ig-nored until it is seen that it is seriously affecting the general business of compet-

Yesterday the passenger officials of the roads centering here got together and organized a local association, its object being to effect a better maintenance of rates and to adjust questions as they arise between the different roads on rate matters, division of business, etc. The Vandalia was represented by John Chesborough, assistant general passenger agent of the company; the Big Four by H. M. Bronson, assistant general passenger agent; the Monon and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton by I. D. Baldwin, general agent at this point; the Lake Erie & Western by C. F. Daly, general passenger agent; the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western by John Lazarus, traffic manager; the Pennsylvania lines by W. F. Brunner, district pas-senger agent. Mr. Lazarus was elected president. C. F. Daly was first nominated, but declined to serve. R. M. Case was elected secretary, he being also secretary of the local rate association His salary is $25 per month, as his labors thus far have not been very laborious.

Prospects for Railway Pooling. A freight traffic manager, who keeps well informed on all important questions affecting the freight business, says: "The prospects seem brighter for the passage of a bill permitting railway peering than at any time in the previous history of the subject. Railway officials who never before gave the matter any attention are now loud in their demands to have such a bill put in effect, properly guarded. There is said to be a harmony of feeling among the members of the commerce committees of both the House of Representatives and the Senate who have been consulted in the preparation of the bill. There is no doubt that the liberation of the railways from some of the fetters now put upon their power to make contracts would put an end to much dishonesty and favoritism and pro-racte the general interest. It has become very plain to shippers that their interests and those of the public lie in the direc-tion of reasonable and uniform rates, rather than special favors to large shippers.'

A freight efficial who claims to have given the east-bound tonnage question a good deal of study, says that under a fair adjustment of the seaboard business the Monon would get about 3 per cent., the Lake Erie & Western about 12, the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton 19, the Pennsylvania lines 21 and the Big Four 43. In the case of the Big Four the freight official said that while it has increased its business to the seaboard via the Chesapeake & Ohio, its business over the Bee-line division has fallen off greatly as compared with that of the early eighties, when the pool was in operation, and most of this business has gone to the Lake Erie & Western, which reaches the seaboard over the same line which the Big Four does with a large proportion of its tonnage.

Electric Railway Project.

A passenger and electric railroad between Washington and New York city has been brought before Congress in a bill for the incorporation of the National Rapid Transit Railway Company. Ex-Representative Hemphill, of South Carolina, and Washington capitalists are interested in the road. They claim that the limits of speed is steam locomotion have been reached, while by electricity a speed of 120 miles an hour is practicable. Only onethird of the land necessary for right of way for a steam road will be required, and they think the mails will soon be carried by electricity.

was delayed in getting out of Chicago yes-terday morning one hour and ten minutes, and although its time is fast it reached Indianapolis but twenty minutes late and went into Cincinnati on time. The Wheeling & Lake Erie management has won favor with its employes by restor-ing the wages of all employes to those prior to the cut of April 1. There is good authority for stating that the threats of the agitators in the American Railway Union had nothing to do with this restoration. Bluffton, Ind., is likely to lose the C., U. C. & C. railway, although some grading has been done near that city. Three years ago Bluffton voted $38,000 to aid the road, and succeeded in diverting the line from the natural route through Montpelier and Warren. The election was illegal and it is now very likely that Monepelier and Warren wid get the road, as they are willing to vote the aid and outbid Bluffton Under the new McMaken law, which has passed the legislative bodies of Ohio, the railroad companies must pay the expenses of the Commissioner of Railways, and are this year assessed $15,000 for that purpose. Under the assessment the Big Four will pay $985.57 of the sum; the Panhandle lines, $1,727; the Lake Shore, $1,438.42; the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago, $1,409.59; the rest of the sum is divided among the smaller roads of that State.

The appointment of a receiver for the Eel River road by Judge Capron, of the Fulton county Circuit Court, was not much of a surprise, it is stated, to those who understood the situation. The attorneys of the Wabash immediately filed notice of appeal and were given ten days to perfect the appeal. The surprise is that the Wabash further litigates to keep possession of the road, as it has been a burden for it to carry for some years. Mr. Hill is sixty-two years of age. A statement of the earnings and expenses of the Milwaukee & St. Paul road for the month of May was issued yesterday. It contains the following figures: Gross earnings for the month, $2,259,714, as compared with $2,701,575 for the corresponding month last year, a decrease of $441,861; operating expenses, $1,534,241, against $1,903,049, a decrease of $368,808; net earnings, $725,472, against $798,25, a decrease of $73,053. The Superior Court Judgeships.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: The nominations for Superior Court judges are expected to take place in July next. Room 1 is occupied by Judge Winters, Room 2 by Judge Harper and Room 3 by Judge Bartholomew, Judge Jacob B. Julian has been announced as a candidate for one of the positions, yet to be determined on. Judge Julian has been in the practice of his profession for fifty-five years, including two years' time spent on the Circuit Court bench. Few men have sustained themselves as lawyers so well at the bar, while as a judge he has established quite as good a reputation. The fact is, few men, either as judge or lawyer, have established a reputation so perfect in all respects as he has. It is said that the length of his practice would seem to indicate his advancing years and possible unfitness for the judgeship he seeks. But when his sprightliness, his perfect preser-vation of his physical and mental powers is considered it is well said in reply that there is nothing in this, and no objection of the kind can be urged, as he is uniformly conceded to be at least twenty-five years the junior of most of his competitors. It is uniformly conceded by all his associates, by all, in fact, who know him. that he is the best-preserved man, physically and mentally, within their knowledge, within the State, in fact. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: Your edition of the 27th contains an article under the above heading, in which my name is mentioned. To be classed as a money-lender these times seems to me like irony of fate. If you should call me a borrower I would have to plead guilty to the charge. In justice to myself I will state that I never lent any money to anyone for interest or profit; that I never took but one chattel mortgage in my life, and that to accommodate an invalid whom I never charged or intended to charge one cent of interest, and who, by the way, has never paid me; that I do not know any of the parties to the suit mentioned, except Mr. Baum, who keeps a grocery near my home and supplies my family with the necessaries of life. How my name came into the complaint I do not know, and the matter will be sifted.

A SUIT OVER PROPERTY BRINGS OUT AN UNUSUAL POINT.

Mrs. Brenneman Granted a Divorce-She Will Get from $10,000 to $20,-000 Alimony-Other Court News.

In Judge Harper's court Sallie Kessler is suing Charles S. Grout and others to set aside a deed. The grounds upon which her complaint is based is that at the time of executing the deed she was not of age. She married before she was of legal age and joined with her husband in the purchase of the property now in controversy in the suit. Both herself and husband afterwards joined in a transfer of the property. After this transfer her husband secured a divorce from her, and now she seeks to have the deed in which she joined

The plaintiff introduced a family Bible, containing records of births, showing the date of birth of plaintiff, for the purpose of showing that she was not of age at the time the deed was executed. The defense introduced expert witnesses, who testified that the signature of the plaintiff to the deed and the record in the Bible were in the same handwriting.

WILL GET HER DIVORCE.

The Court Will Set Mrs. Brenneman F ee with Big Alimony.

At the night session of the court last night Judge Bartholomew partially decided a divorce case, the evidence in which was probably the foulest that has ever been detailed in a Marion county court room. It was the suit of Martha J. Brenneman against Isaac Brenneman for divorce and alimony. Both the parties to the suit are comparatively young persons, and prior to their separation resided upon a farm in Perry township, three miles south of the city on the "Three-notch" road. The complaint was filed by Mrs. Brenneman in March and charges infidelity. In it she alleges that she and the defendant were married on Feb. 25, 18:5; that she left him on Feb. 22, 1894; that the defendant was worth, in his own right, $30,000, and that he had an expectancy of another $30,000. Plaintiff asked judgment for alimony in the sum of $25,000. The time of the court was taken up during the day by the trial of a damage suit against the three gas companies, which consumed more time than was anticipated, and night sessions of the court were of necessity resorted to for the purpose of disposing of the divorce cases pending. Last night the court room was crowded. A large number of the persons present were attracted by the nature of the case. There were also a large number of witnesses subpoenaed, among them a number of women and girls. The bulk of the testimony was of such a character that it could not be reproduced in print. The defense introduced a former domestic in the Brenneman household to show that Mrs. Brenneman had said three years ago that she intended to leave her husband. This was emphatically denied by Mrs. Brenneman in rebuttal. At the beginning Judge Bartholomew notified both sides that they would be permitted to introduce but a limited number of witnesses. The evidence closed at 9:20 o'clock and the court allowed forty minutes for argument, but all of the time was not consumed. Harding & Hovey appeared for the plaintiff and McCullough & Spaan for the defense. Mr. Harding, in his argument, said he believed only question to be studied was the amount of ali-to be granted the plaintiff. In case of the death of her husband the wife would be entitled to one-third of his property and she could not, on account of the immoral acts of her husband, be left in a worse condition than she would by death. He vigorously scored the defendant, and while he was talking the plaintiff sat with her face buried in her handkerchief and cried. Mr. Harding said: "If you could lay down before Mrs. Brenneman all of the gold of the defendant and his mother you could not compensate her for the suffering she has and will endure. Her husband would have been more of a man and a better citizen had he beaten his wife, like a slave master, with a blacksnake whip each morning until the flesh was lacerated and the blood flowed from her wounds." Continuing upon the point of the amount of alimony to which she was entitled he said it was the spirit of the law to leave the wife, were she faithful, in no worse condition than she would be upon the death of her husband. and he thought $10,000 was as little as should be allowed. Mr. Spaan was very brief in his argument for the defense, claiming the plaintiff had not proved the allegations of her complaint. Mr. Harding offered to say a few words in rebuttal, but was stopped by Judge Bartholomew, who said: "This case is one that shows lots of depravity. the like of which is seldom found in the courts. The evidence shows that this man was warned by friends against marrying at the time that he did. It seems to me that a man who would act as he has is below civilization. The evidence shows that he has violated the most sacred of all laws, and he now comes into the court and sits here and laughs at the evidence of his own depravity. I will further investigate the question of alimony, but will say that I shall give the plaintiff one-third of the property of the defendant. As to divorce there can be no question." Rila Hilton was also granted a divorce from Rinaldo Hilton. They were married Oct. 17, 1887, and on March 12 of the year following the defendant was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to the peni-Stella C. Walsh was granted a divorce from Edward W. Walsh on the grounds of abandonment and failure to provide.

up for trial in the Police Court yesterday afternoon. It was the intention of the defendants to make a fight in the court, and they had employed counsel to conduct their defense. A jury composed of the following persons were impaneled: John Brooks, S. D. Shannon, Charles Styer, J. H. Boyle, J. A. Risk, J. H. Stearns, Isaac Lemon, C. W. Phipps, J. H. McCorckle, S. B. McGuire, John Hasty and A. J. Griffith. All the witnesses were present in the court room, and the special judge had taken his seat preparatory to beginning the trial. The State was prepared for its case and was confident of securing a conviction, when the defendants announced their desire to plead guilty. This sudden change of front was caused by the action of D. B. Shideler, one of the defendants. Unknown to the others Mr. Shideler had gone to the court room in the morning and had a plea of guilty entered in the case against him. When the other defendants heard of this they began to suspect that Mr. Shideler would be called as a witness against them, and all agreed to plead guilty. Those who entered this plea yesterday afternoon were: George Rhodius, Thomas Nelson, Benjamin Metheny, Phil McGuire, William Bacon and Charles Wood. A fine of $10 and costs was assessed against each, and their bonds permitted to stand till this morning, when the fines will be paid. A policy shop "layout" was introduced in evidence in the Police Court yesterday morning against the three men captured in a raid. They were fined $500 each and appealed to the Criminal Court. Edward Harmoning, the foreman at the yards of the Western Paving and Supply Company, who tried to eject officer Balcom from the yards, was fined $5 and costs, and the case was appealed.

Patrick Murphy, the saloon keeper who attempted to forcibly eject Sergeant Schwab from his saloon, was fined $23 and costs, and he also appealed to the higher court. Annie Simpson and Henry Herr, who were arrested Tuesday night, agreed to marry, and the ceremony was performed in the Police Court yesterday morning. FULFORD ACQUITTED.

Prosecutor Holtzman Surprised and Very Much Fut Out at the Verdict. The fury in the Fulford case brought in a verdict of acquittal at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The argument was completed and the case given to the jurors at 4 o'clock the evening before. Prosecutor Holtzman was disappointed at the verdict, and said the jury had as good as decided that it was all right to purchase a juror. He intimated that he believed the jury had been tampered with, and said that the next jury would not be permitted to separate. He said that while there was no evidence to show that this jury had been unduly influenced, he knew enough to form a strong opinion upon the subject.

Yesterday morning Edward W. Moister filed an affidavit and information against Fulford charging him with having forged the name of Mattias Dohr to a voucher. It was the indictment charging this same forgery that was held to be defective by the court. The bond of Fulford was fixed at $1,000, and Prosecutor Holtzman said the case would be set down for trial this Matthews pardoned him at the request of Judge Cox, Prosecutor Holtzman and a number of railroad employes. Leacock claims there was never any intent to defraud the lodge, and that he was unfortunate and borrowed the money. His wife is ill and in destitute circumstances, and the case appeared a worthy one. Lea-cock would have been released in a few months by expiration of sentence, counting the good time he would have gained.
